On November 25, 2017, The Department of English invites Scholars and faculty members to one day workshop on "Intellectual Property Rights"

Intellectual Property Rights are like any other property rights. They refer to the creations of mind: inventions, literary and artistic works and symbols, names and images used. They are the rights given to person over his creativity and give exclusive rights to him over the use of his/her creation for a certain period of time. These rights are outlined in Article 27 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, which provides for the right to benefit from the protection of moral and material interest resulting from authorship of scientific, literary or artistic productions. This workshop aims to discuss the concepts and various issues related to Intellectual Property Rights. During the workshop the participants will have interactive session that will help them to clear their concepts and doubts regarding Intellectual Property Rights.

“That is part of the beauty of all literature. You discover that your longings are universal longings, that you’re not lonely and isolated from anyone. You belong.”

F. Scott Fitzgerald

Department of English BGSBU was established in the year 2014 , it aims at developing insights among young generation into different forms of literature. Humanity is like an ocean with vast expense, which cannot be visualized but can be comprehended through literature. From past few centuries, literature has attempted to explore more areas of human life. It does not focus only on the narrations and tales but also looks into psyche of the characters. The socio-economic side has also been touched and explored by literature.
